

Are you in a business where identity theft is uncommon? If there are no reports in the news and no talk among people in your line of work about identity theft, your industry may not now be the target of identity thieves, and your organization may be at low risk for identity theft.

I've conducted an assessment of name of your business or organization

Here are the reasons we are at low risk for identity theft:

Designing an Identity Theft Prevention Program for Businesses or PART B: Organizations at Low Risk

Designing a program involves four basic steps:

STEP 1:

Identifying relevant red flags

STEP 2:

Detecting red flags

STEP 3:

Responding to red flags

STEP 4:

Administering your Program

STEP 1: Identifying relevant red flags

The first step is to identify the relevant red flags you might come across that signal that people trying to get products or services from you aren't who they claim to be. Read the FTC's free booklet Fighting Fraud with the Red Flags Rule: A How-To Guide for Business (pages 19-21) for examples. For instance, if you check photo IDs, a classic red flag of identity theft is an inconsistency between the person's appearance and the information on the photo ID. If you know all your customers personally, it's probably not necessary to ask for a photo ID, and this red flag wouldn't be appropriate. Sometimes, the only red flag may be a notice from another source that an identity theft has occurred. Since that red flag applies to everyone, it's included here.

Here are the red flags we have identified:

1.	Notice from a customer, a victim of identity theft, a law enforcement agency, or someone else that an account he	185

STEP 2: Detecting red flags

The second step is to explain how your business or organization will detect the red flags you've identified. For example, perhaps in Step 1 you identified false IDs as a red flag. To detect a false ID, you might consider training your staff to look carefully at the ID to see if the person's appearance is consistent. What if somebody notifies you that an account has been opened or used fraudulently? To make sure those notices don't fall through the cracks, you may decide to require employees to log that kind of notice in a central place or to tell a staff member responsible for responding to red flags.

Here's how we'll detect the red flags we have identified:

Each space holds up to 210 characters. Use an additional sheet if necessary.

STEP 3: Responding to red flags

The third step is to decide how you'll respond to any red flags that materialize. For example, say you've identified the risk of false IDs as a warning sign of identity theft, and you've noted that you will train your staff to look for inconsistencies in identification. Your employee has checked the photo ID and detected an inconsistency. What's the next step? Perhaps it's asking for another form of identification – or maybe not providing any products or services until the inconsistency has been resolved. Or imagine you're trying to collect on an unpaid bill, and the person you contact tells you his identity was stolen and he didn't run up that bill. Although it will depend on the circumstances, consider how you might respond. For example, you could ask for proof that an identity theft claim has been filed.

Marysville Estates Application Policy Effective April 15, 2011

All applicants must fill out an application for residency at Marysville Estates. Everyone that will be residing in the home must be listed on the application regardless of age. All applicants and occupants 18 years of age and older will be subject to a criminal history background investigation. A person is considered an occupant if they reside in the home more then 7 days in a 30 day period. It is at our discretion which bureau, agency, reports or means we use to obtain that information.

Felony convictions are addressed as follows. Any convictions of drug-related, sex-related or violent charges within 7 years will be an automatic denial of residency. Felony convictions that do not fall within those guidelines will be sent to the Regional Manager and the decision to deny or approve will be made by him/her. Items that will be taken into account include degree, charge, length of time since conviction and criminal history since conviction.

Credit reports and previous rental history investigations will be conducted to determine the probability of rent being paid on time and in full. Prior eviction actions taken against you by previous landlords may be grounds for denial.

You must provide proof of income. Debt to income ratio may not exceed 45%.

Any false information given on an application will be automatic grounds for termination of lease and eviction actions will be taken.

Once you are accepted for residency.

A lease must be signed and all persons residing in the home must be listed on the lease as leaseholders or occupants. A full security deposit must be paid at time of lease signing. A copy of the manufactured home title in the leaseholders name must be presented to the office.

I have received this policy and an agent of Marysville Estates has explained this policy to me. I understand that I must adhere to this policy. I have also been given a copy of the Rules and Regulations of the community.
